A Prohibition Item

Time's Whirligig

Seals Might Be Altheists

By Arthur Brisbane

OUR DEPRESSION has not reduced all to penury. Last August income tax returns show that 504 Americans had incomes of more than a million dollars a year. The total incomes of those with $50,000 a year or more total almost six thousand million dollars.

At midnight yesterday four million Americans had finished filing income tax reports, telling Uncle Sam how much they owed him. The agency is over for this year.

For next year, to understand the income tax, read "Memorandum on Federal Income Taxation." With a supplement of over 300 pages written by Dr. Joseph J. Klein, C. P. A., LL. B., and published by John Wiley & Sons.

This book, written by the leading income tax expert in the United States, may save you money on a big or little income.

Every year since 1923, the Treasury has handed back more than one hundred million dollars of income tax collected. In 1923 refunds amounted to $250,000,000. In 1928, to $378,000,000. Thousands of taxpayers have neglected opportunities to secure refunds. Perhaps you have done so.

Dr. Klein's book will show you how to get the refund, if you are entitled to any. Also, how to treat assessments that you think unwarranted. And, in addition, the book will enable an amateur to prepare his own tax returns. Many of the richest men in the United States consult Dr. Klein about their taxation. His book tells how the head of a family may, legally and properly, by use of trusts and corporations, greatly reduce taxation.

Henry H. Curran, who doesn't believe in prohibition, says that while all two million Americans would have had no income tax to pay this year, "Without prohibition the national government would be taking in about $250,000,000 this year in revenue on wine, beer and spirits." The wonder of it, according to Mr. Curran, is "all these hundreds of millions and more go into the pockets of bootleggers, rum-runners, racketeers, except sums paid to prohibition agents and police in graft and bribes."

Apart from prohibition there's a little prohibition fact reported by the Associated Press from Wilmington, N. C., May 10th.

Leonard Roberts, aged 28, was driving a mail truck, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Starnes, aged 30, on the outskirts of the city. Prohibition agents who thought the truck looked like a bootlegging truck, ordered the driver to stop.

Bound to protect the mails, the driver, thinking he was being stopped by highwaymen, refused. He and the deputy sheriff with him were shot dead by the earnest prohibition officers.

They say Roberts, the mail driver, died first, and then the credit, if he thought it was just one of his many attempted robberies.

Nobody should condemn hastily by any efforts of prohibition agents to enforce the law. But, in shooting at truck drivers, an exception ought to be made in favor of mail drivers.

Strange are life's contrasts. One of the greatest athletes this country ever knew is digging ditches in California.

Charles the Fifth, greatest European ruler, except Charlemagne and Napoleon, retired to a convent in a mad, convulsed, Croesus lost all his money, harassed being helped by his wife, and a chance exclamation made on the bovine saved him.

And consider the case of Harry K. Long, buried in Detroit yesterday. He was a hummer in an automobile when he died from heart failure some two years after he celebrated his golden wedding.

Years ago he was a great in his line as any man is fortunate you saw him in the circus, bowing in spangles, clanking along a rotating board and turning corners, results over the backs of 22 elephants. Not one of you, I understand you, but TWENTY-two elephants.

The whirligig of time brings in his revenge," indeed.

No greater grief than to remember days.

Of joy when misery is at hand.

Dante, who wrote that, knew the bitterness of holding out his hand to beg. It is even possible that some of the 504 Americans that recently reported to Uncle

WHY BARBERS CRY 'NEXT!'

Things looked pretty black for Joseph Brooks as he sat in his barber shop, 217 Hampshire st., Cambridge today. A truck loaded with five tons of coal came up, and while the driver was dumping the fuel into a sidewalk scuttle the boat on the truck broke. As a result most of the coal crashed through the shop window, some of it grazing Joe. (Staff photo.)

MORE GARRETT COAL ARRIVES VIA WINDOW

Four bank accounts showing total deposits of more than $320,000 were introduced at the Garrett trial in Suffolk Superior Court today.

There were in the Brookline Trust Co., one in the name of F. H. Garrett showing deposits of more than $250,000 with nearly the same withdrawal; one in the name of Florence H. Garrett showing deposits of more than $250,000 and a third in the name of F. H. Woodside, a small account.

A fourth, showing $444 deposits in the name of Oliver B. Garrett in the Federal National Bank, was introduced through L. A. Fallon, an accountant.

The trial of Oliver B. Garrett, his wife, Florence, and Lillian Hatch on charges of conspiring to murder John F. Sullivan, resumed after a recess of half a day due to the illness of Daniel J. Gallagher, counsel for the woman.

The Brookline Trust Company records were introduced in the trial of Sullivan, who testified yesterday.

MARCHING CHEERING THROUGH

Gold Star Mothers and Disabled Veterans Honored in Line and at Reviews

PICTURES ON PAGES 2 AND 3

Through a long and winding channel, lined with thousands of spectators and bright-banded bunting, throngs into held relief by the gray, 10,000 men and women marched in South Boston today to celebrate the departure of the British 155th year ago.

Veterans and Gold Star mothers, regulars, national guardsmen and boy cadets, public officials and hosts of 14 business and civic organizations, passed through the streets amid the cheers of the crowds.

Red, white and blue streamers and the green of Ireland rippled in the raw north wind as the parade of 14 business and civic organizations, passed through the streets amid the cheers of the crowds.

He said, while the crowds gathered, in the streets across the harbor and making the town into an entire district, the whole city assisting, observed the patriotic day and mingled with it the honoring of St. Patrick.

ON DORCHESTER HEIGHTS

Starting from Edward Everett square, on Columbia rd., the parade struck into the heart of South Boston by way of Dorchester av. and Dorchester st., climbed to Thomas street, and then, after a short descent, swung the length of the peninsula and back again.

On the heights where colonial cannons were planted, commanding the harbor and making the town untenable by the redcoats, and at numerous other shrines, Marshal Edward M. Sheehy and his staff ceremoniously paid tribute to the past.

Applause rumbled over the heads of the marchers, intermingling with the music of a score of bands, from James Walsh, truck driver for the Thomas Walsh & Sons Coal Co., who delivered the coal, backed his truck to the curb behind Brooks and aimed the cannon at a squall in the sidewalk under the window of his shop today.

The mechanical host of the truck broke and a wave of coal swept through the window, some of it landed on Brooks, who was wearing a suit of armor.

DIVORCE WON BY W. T. BULLARD

Washington Irving Bullard, former vice-president of the Mercantile National Bank, Boston, and now vice-president of the Central Trust Co. of Chicago, was granted a divorce from Mrs. Anna Jacobs Bullard in Chicago today.

He charged his wife with desertion of the home for 18 months after 23 years of married life.

Atty. Lloyd Foxon, counsel for Bullard, told the court that a settlement of the wife had been made out of court. The two daughters, Barbara Anna and Charles Francis, Atty. Foxon said, are on a self-subsiding basis.

Bullard, a former Boston newspaperman, has been with the Central Trust Co. of Chicago since last September. He resigned as vice-president of the Mercantile National Bank in 1928 to devote his time to other interests, including a number of trusteeships.

Before coming to Boston he was for five years mayor of Danvers, Mass.

He is treasurer of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers and of the E. H. Johns Manufacturing Co. of Danvers, is chairman of the aviation committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce and is a member of the board of Colonial Air Transport, Inc.

Los Angeles, March 17 (AP)—Bryon Gay, composer of popular songs, had a weakness for parties and gay life, his wife for a time, in securing a divorce. She declared he told her women were "crazy about him." Gay, who did not contest the action, was reported to be in New York. The couple have an eight-year-old daughter.

St. John's, N. F., March 17—After battling through the long Northland night across shifting ice floes and against icy wind, 118 survivors of the ill-fated sailing vessel Viking, destroyed by an explosion in the outer reaches of White Bay, had struggled to safety on Horseshoe Island today.

Not one of these survivors could tell of the fate of L. Varick Frank, New York society man, an independent motion picture producer, whose taking film expedition into the sub-Arctic waters ended in tragedy when a mysterious explosion demolished the Viking and took 46 lives.

The fate of Fritsch and his chief aide, Henry J. Sargent, Boston stock registrars, and A. E. Fenwick, well-known cameraman, remained locked in the frozen wastes of White Bay.

THEY ARE UNKNOWN.

Whether they met instant death when the stern of the Viking was smashed by the blast or escaped, the fate of these three men is not yet known.

Other, escaping with their lives when the Viking blew up, were believed to have lost their lives when they lost their footing and slipped into the turbulent Arctic waters between floes in the shifting ice.

Among those brought to safety was Capt. Abram Keen, Jr., skipper of the Viking. On duty on the first of this month, all believed he was killed when the ship was struck by the blast.

Early on the morning of March 4, 1776, General Thomas and 800 American soldiers threw up strong earth-works and planted heavy cannon on Dorchester Heights, completely dominating the harbor and the British fleet. Storm prevented the British fleet from maneuvering and Gen. William Howe was compelled to either surrender with his troops as prisoners of war, or to evacuate immediately. The British general chose evacuation and was allowed to depart with 7000 soldiers, 4000 seamen and 1500 Tory families, for Halifax. (From Faneuil Hall collection. Gift of Lieut. GO-EDS' HEALTH BETTER THAN 50 YEARS AGO

Ashland, O., March 17 (AP)—Betty Good of 1931 is a better girl physically than Betty Good of 50 years ago. She weighs more, is taller and has a greater lung capacity and chest girth.

This was revealed today by Dr. Edwin E. Jacobs, president of Ashland College, who in the last 10 years has studied the physical measurements taken of 5000 girls freshmen in five institutions of higher learning during the last half-century. The ages of the girls measured were approximately 18 to 19 years.

In his analysis Dr. Jacobs used index figures, indicating far comparison the average of the measurements. The figures are:

	10 Yrs. Ago Today	50 Yrs. Ago Today
Weight	112.5	135.3
Height	158.3	161.8
Lung capacity	1884	1608
Chest girth	78.1	80.7

Dr. Jacobs' analysis indicates that the improvement has been steady.

He said the causes for increased vigor perhaps are:

College girls may now be coming from a different stratum of society than formerly.

Foul Play Denied in Vice Witness Death

False Teeth O. K. for Police Now

The civil service commission decided today that a policeman with 20 teeth is not necessarily a better officer than a policeman with no teeth at all. The commissioners rescinded an order passed Jan. 6 which made 20 sound teeth necessary for positions in the police and fire departments. Under the ruling false teeth barred the applicant. Now the commission will return to the previous ruling, which makes "adequate false teeth" acceptable.

Auto Thieves Due for Surprise Here

Chicago, March 17 (AP)—Dr. Edwin Reynolds told police that within a few days it was likely the men who stole his automobile the other night would be found in some pasture. The automobile was recovered yesterday, but plans which the doctor said contained enough typhoid and smallpox germs to start an epidemic of either disease were missing.

Boston Shivers, but Warm Weather Due

Boston shivers in a pleasing March wind from the east today, but the weatherman promises a change for the better tomorrow. Two strong outbreaks of New England were responsible for the chill, but the prediction said the winds would change to northwest tomorrow. The old brought light flurries of snow between Boston and Norfolk along the coastline when storms from the Ohio valley and from Bermuda met off Nantucket.

IS HALF A DAY A U. S. GREETED BY COSGRAVE WHOLE DAY?

Washington, March 17.—When is half a day a whole day? No four hours make a day or don't they?

Nearly 100,000 persons are interested and most of them have expressed an opinion. The official answer is to come from Attorney General Mitchell.

Congress enacted a bill giving all government employees a year round Saturday half holiday.

"Very nice," said the employees, "but—"

"For years," federal workers have been entitled to 20 days annual leave and no question asked. No question, that is, until the workers themselves began asking the question.

"If a government employee now takes Saturday off he is to be charged with a full day or a half day's leave."

They received conflicting answers.

This Ends a Discomfort Thousands of Women Are Suffering

An Absolutely New Discovery That's Changing All Previous Ideas in Women's Hygiene

Pure RAYON Cellulose Filled—It Cannot Chafe or Irritate! It is now an entirely new kind of sanitary napkin made possible by a new mechanical invention. It is new in design, new in material, new and remarkable in the results it gives.

Women by the thousands are discovering other new sanitary methods and adopting it. For it has two outstanding advantages: every woman is quick to understand and appreciate.

Relief Pains and Comfort

Patented under U. S. Patents (7-6, Pat. No. 170230) is a different kind of sanitary napkin. It is different in its texture. When you look at its border, you will find one of the pads and examine the other. You will find it is made of pure Rayon Cellulose. Soft and like silk, it is the only kind of sanitary napkin that can be used in old-type methods.

You will see from its construction why it cannot chafe or irritate. Hence, no more discomfort, no more irritation from wearing a sanitary pad. Consider what this means.

The solution is the gentle softness of Pluffed Silk. Its feel.

Place for a Little Jacket in Every Wardrobe

By ANN ARDEN

CAN YOU imagine a really smart wardrobe that ignored the existence of the little jacket this spring? It is almost a sacrilege to think of such thing! After having them shown up at you from every Paris opening and seeing them blowing forth from every shop window, you would think that the subject would be a bit stale—but so, it is more interesting than ever.

IT IS the bewildering variety of poses that jackets assume that makes them so fascinating. Whether it's for sports or evening, there is a tendency to brevity upon the part of the jacket. One clever model employs the fitted lines and the small point in the back that characterizes some types of military jackets. Some of them are reminiscent of the Elton Jacket, which is a bit longer than the bolero that has kept its popularity for such a long time.

THESE FASCINATING jackets are shown up with the frock; usually they are worn with several frocks, and a formal evening gown becomes completely appropriate for the theater or restaurant dining when topped by its jacket. Smart lines and striking contrast mark the costume picture—Vienne's "restaurant dress" of black felt crepe. Its sheathing skirt is so subtle there from the knees. The neckline ties high in the neck, but manages to be very low-cut. The cross-over lines, narrowing the waist line are faced in white, and tie in back in knot and two short ends. The dress jacket is of white felt crepe.

IT IS quite evident that Paris is not going to relinquish her hold on the chic black and white, in spite of the great waves of color splashing over everything.

THE GRECIAN sandal is the classic of the evening mood. One version has an ankle strap and deeply cut out vamp applied in gold laid on velvet. A less formal style has a T strap and a "c" of black crepe embroidered in a floral pattern. For the dinner, black, nothing could be more appropriate than the smart velvet pointed, in silver lid.

MYSTERY DEATH OF PAULINE KEYES

A Reporter's Story of a Famous Brookline Murder Case

By PAUL WHELTON

(Who worked on the story as a Reporter)

(In yesterday's installment of the Pauline Keyes murder case at Brookline, in June, 1917, the investigation and subsequent arrest of Harriet Varney, nurse and rival of the victim, were described.)

Mrs. Pauline Keyes never received the mail package delivered at her door two hours before she was found shot to death in her dining room, it was brought out at the trial of Harriet Varney in December.

Despite the postman's sight of a woman's skirt as the wearer disappeared into a room after hanging the bell, the package which was left on the doorstep was never picked up by the murder victim, to whom it was addressed.

It was established at the trial that, while Keyes had testified as to her wife's handwriting in the purported, signed note, the first and last parts of the note had been written by two different persons. Pauline Keyes was declared to have written the first two sentences:

"I am suffering from a violent headache. I cannot endure it any longer."

Someone—undoubtedly the lawyer had written the last part: "I have found you out. You have had to me. Another woman has come into your life. I am sorry that it has all come out this way."

It was argued, reasonably enough, that a woman contemplating suicide and having such a letter in her possession would not bother to hide it in her note such a sinister thing as a headache.

And it was argued that a woman, especially a young woman of 36, contemplating suicide would not have pride in her wish to be buried in the name of her husband and broken heart with a postscript to her husband about a headache.

Why was Pauline Keyes writing a note to her husband about a headache? If she had been, why could he have told him over the telephone, or waited until he came home? And who had added the sentences to her two, putting such a different complexion and interpretation on the writing?

KEYES CLEARED

These questions still have as an answer only their own echoes.

George Keyes was cleared of double murder guilt early in the trial, and by no less an eminent "reformer of veracity" than Dr. Walter Gardner, Dr. Kendall of Atlantic, noted dentist, horticulturist, sportsman, the favorite and friend of the ancient Boston Bicyclist Club.

At the time fixed as the murder of Keyes was in Dr. Kendall's dental chair, then over Cook's Restaurant in Brighton at, seemingly, a man having knowledge of the murder of his wife would have chosen a much more pleasant spot for a still point than the entrance of a dentist's drill.

Doc Kendall was the key witness for Keyes and was so referred in the subsequent summing-up of Chief Justice, Katzmann, when he said:

"I hold no brief for George Keyes, but if it were not for the testimony of Dr. Kendall, the husband of this victim, I might now be sitting in the place of this defendant (Miss Varney)."

In the trial, the illicit love of Harriet Varney for Keyes, and his subsequent, resumed only a few months after her death, were brought out—Miss Varney declaring that a claret lemonade with Keyes on the occasion of her second meeting with him proved her downfall and the start of their relations.

Claret Started Downfall

According to her testimony, they were dining in Providence and she ordered claret lemonade while "he was drinking liquor." When she complained that her lemonade was not, Keyes said, "I will fix that."

There is a Konjola Man at the store in your town. He will tell you how it works and what it has done for him. He is known as the Konjola Man. He has more than a million friends, and in just two years there were thousands of bottles of Konjola used.

It is the great of Konjola ability to give relief when pained ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Suppose you read the grateful words of Mrs. M. M. Jones, of Franklin Street, Lynn, Mass. Then you will understand how Konjola wins its friends and fame. She said to the Konjola Man:

"My nerves were in such condition that the least thing excited me. I was easily depressed, and did not sleep. My nerves were so bad that I suffered with pains across my chest. My appetite was poor and I kept losing weight and strength. A friend, who had suffered with all sorts of ailments, told me to try Konjola. I did, and how thankful I am that she gave me this advice. In three weeks Konjola made a changed woman of me. My nerves are now normal, my appetite has returned, I am gaining weight, and getting on my feet. I feel a new man to get up day after day, and I am feeling better in every respect."

The records of Konjola's sale overflow with such glowing testimonials of those who, in their overtaxed joy, put their faith in this medicine.

The Konjola Man is at the Misting, Seltzer, Soda, and Drug Store, Boston, where day by day he explains to the public and examines the records of Konjola. Konjola is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Notes and Gossip About People You Know

SHAMROCK WAVES TODAY

City Hall observed St. Patrick's Day in true Irish fashion today. Four large pots of shamrock were on duty in Mayor Curley's office and hundreds of smaller ones were in the Hall and in the Annex. The shamrocks were given by the members of the pack department under the direction of Park Commissioner William F. Long.

ANOTHER CROWLEY KNOWS

"Jack" Crowley, chief inspector of the paving division of the city's public works department, is a brother of Rep. of Rep. Michael H. Crowley and is an authority on all matters pertaining to the law enforcement branch of the city's work.

CHAPMAN INITIATED

Philip A. Chapman, superintendent of supplies for the city last night became a member of James M. Curley, Jr. Court, M. C. O. P. at initiation exercises in the Hotel Statler.

HE KNOWS FOLEY

"Rip" Foley, junior engineer of the city street-lighting department, has an opportunity to hear the latest story of the city's interesting criminal cases which are handled by the office of the district attorney of Suffolk County. He is a chum of Dist. Atty. "Bill" Foley.

HE "PLAYS" THIS TOO

"Jimmy" Roddy, well-known orchestra leader, is employed as a train man in the public service of the public works department.

FISH TO SPEAK

City Councilor Albert L. Fish of Dorchester, who for many years past has been a student of Irish history, will be the principal speaker at the St. Margaret's Church "Irish Club" at its banquet at the Edward Everett sq. Dorchester, tonight.

GOLD BRAID IRAS

State House guards are not very enthusiastic over their new uniforms. Prior to this year, when they had to buy their own regalia the uniforms were plain blue. With the State forcing the bill now, under a legislative act, gold braid on coat and trousers are added. It is more than probable that Sup. of Building Fred H. Kimball early tomorrow that the temptation to wear the uniforms other than on duty would be greatly lessened if marked conspicuously.

ONE WHO IS TILTED

One of the loudest voiced men in the House is Rep. Carl A. Woelke of Methuen. Unless there is an unusual amount of interest in the subject being debated, you need a loud voice in that body if you want to be heard above the buzz of unimportant conversation. Rep. Woelke is always heard.

WITH CURLEY'S VOICE

Much has been said and written about the similarity in the speaking voices of Mayor Curley and Rep. Leo M. Birmingham of Brighton. The similarity from latter. However, if you were to put your ears while Sen. Joseph A. Logan of Hyde Park is debating, you could readily vision the Mayor as the speaker.

HE HAS A FULL HOUSE

City Councilor Michael J. Manorey of South Boston boasts that he has a larger family than any other younger member of the Council. "Mike" is 35 years old and is the father of three girls and two boys.

TUCK BACK ON JOB

Whitfield Tuck of Winchester, apparently fully recovered from his recent illness, is again making his daily appearance before the members of the Legislature. "Tuck" who is the youngest member of the Legislature, tells the legislators in no uncertain terms just what he thinks of them.

HERBERT FOR SPEAKER

Rep. Christian Herbert of Boston, who succeeded Henry L. Plattuck in the Legislature, in his first two emergency program bills made a strong impression both within and without the Legislature. It is being predicted that he will rise rapidly. His qualifications for speaker are already being discussed.

NOT AFTER CASH

When Richard J. Lane, chairman of the Boston schoolhouse commission, told the joint legislative committee that he advocated cutting the school budget from $100 million to $80 million, for use in repairing Boston school buildings, Senate Chairman Samuel Wragg said: "Well, it's refreshing to see somebody coming up here offering to give money instead of trying to get some."

DISBALE COLLECTOR

Corp. Counsel Samuel Silverman is a collector of books written by and relating to Diarrhi. His collection numbers 110 and is probably the largest and best collection in New England. Knowing his hobby, London bookshelves occasionally send him material to add to his collection. Mr. Silverman has found many rare volumes in out-of-the-way bookshops.

TOY FOR SCHOOLS

Joe Tye, Boston newspaper humorist, took time enough off to appear before the joint legislative committee on municipal finance to advocate a girl's central high school building. Joe has one daughter there now and will send another. He believes in educated women, he told the committee.

Youth Captured in Store Robbery

Sam youth gave his name as Spencer Albright, 21, Joseph P. Sawyer, market proprietor, and William Mackie, his helper, told police Albright put them into a refrigerator and took $150.

Hoover Invited to Black Hills

Washington, March 17 (AP)—President Hoover was invited today to spend all or part of the summer in the Black Hills of South Dakota. The invitation to spend a vacation in the same district in which his predecessor, President Coolidge, issued his historic "I do not choose to run" statement, was extended by Senator Norbeck.

Portland, Me., March 17.—Roy E. Foster, 26, lumber company employee, escaped with slight injuries when his truck was picked up by the cowcatcher of a locomotive of a Maine Central passenger train, and he was carried 126 feet, still on his seat, and then thrown to the ground.

Peggy Hoover Visits Father in Asheville

Asheville, N. C., March 17 (AP)—Peggy Ann Hoover, granddaughter of the President, arrived today to spend her sixth birthday with her father, Herbert Hoover, Jr., whom she has not seen for six months. Her nurse and her little brother, Herbert Hoover, 3d, accompanied the demure maid from Washington.

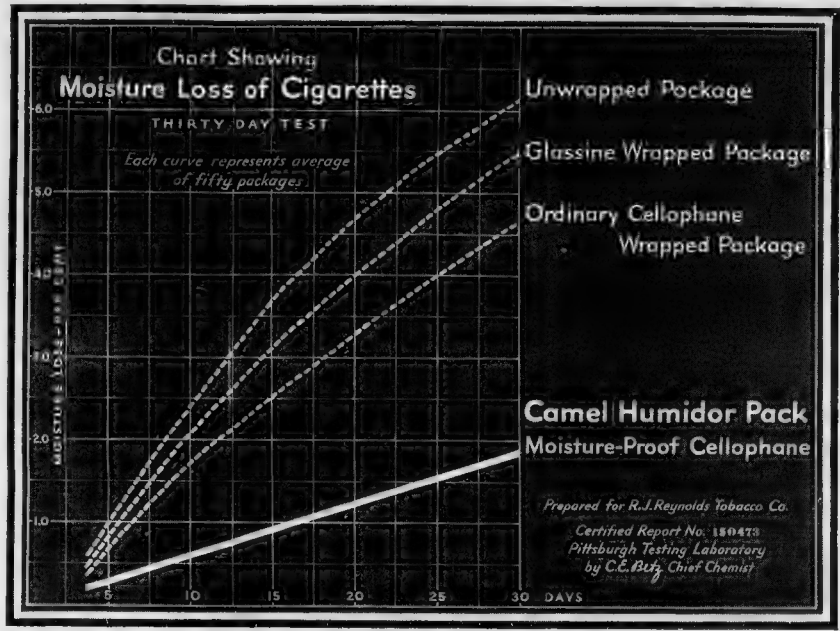

Lone Bandit Raids Store in Worcester

Worcester, March 17 (AP)—Spanner Albright, 24, of New York, was arrested this morning, charged with robbery a few minutes after he had held up and robbed Joseph F. Sawyer of $124, in his store. It was the second hold-up in Sawyer's within a year, a gun having made off with $1200 about 12 months ago. Albright's only weapon was a cigarette case which shows one cigarette out through a hole when a trigger is pressed. Brandishing the case, Albright backed Sawyer and his helper into an ice box.

Smoke a FRESH Cigarette!

THE whole country is talking about the throat-easy mildness and the prime freshness of Camel Cigarettes in the new Humidor Pack.

The above chart prepared by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory tells you why. Please examine it carefully. It is an unflinching guide to cigarette selection and enjoyment.

As you can quickly see by the three upper curves on this interesting chart, cigarettes that lack the protection of the Humidor Pack lose their moisture rapidly from the day they are manufactured.

And day by day as this moisture disappears, the smoke from these cigarettes becomes harsher, hotter, more unkind to the smoker's throat.

Not so with Camels! The Humidor Pack is moisture proof and sealed air-tight at every point. It protects the rich, flavorful aroma of the choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended.

Make these tests yourself

It is so easy to tell the difference between parched dry cigarettes and fresh prime Camels that it is no wonder everybody is reaching for a fresh cigarette today.

Your fingers identify stale, dried-out tobaccos at once. While a Camel is flexible and pliant.

Your ears can tell the difference too. For a dust-dry cigarette crackles under pressure.

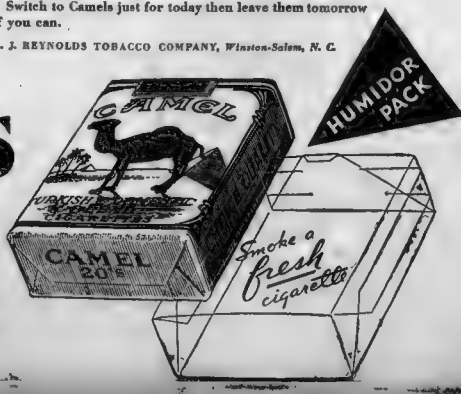

But the real test is taste and there is simply no comparison between the rich mildness of a Camel and the hot, brackish smoke from a stale, dry cigarette.

Switch to Camels just for today then leave them tomorrow if you can.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Artificial heat in houses and apartments soon dries the moisture out of cigarettes wrapped the old fashioned way. It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette."

Buy Camels by the carton—this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office.

MYSTERIOUS WAYE

Girl Takes Dislike to Nursing Home, But Is Held Against Her Will

"Uncle," said Marjorie, "I want to come away from here."

By PERCIVAL CHRISTOPHER WREN.
(Copyright, 1931, by Frederick A. Stokes Co.)

CHAPTER I Strange Illness

YELLOW afternoon sunlight flooded the beautiful yet austere consultation room. As the clock struck two, Dr. Charles, followed by his secretary, a young woman, entered. Seating himself in his own corner, the doctor swiftly scanned the letters placed before him, and then, with the words:

"Miss Lauderdale in five minutes," dismissed the secretary.

Dr. Charles, drawing from his pocket a bunch of keys attached to a gold chain, unlocked a drawer, produced a book, and looked the book and, leaning back in his chair, awaited the entry that had made him sit.

Dr. Charles, proprietor and chief physician of his famous nursing home, was quite unlike the popular conception of an eminent physician.

A tall, well-built and well-dressed man, he wore a mustache, and beard, in addition to his teeth.

Nor was the doctor's hand of the type usually associated with medicine. It was rather heavy and tough, the fingers short and blunt.

Touched Button

The doctor touched a button beside his desk, the door opened to be exact, two doors opened, and a beautiful girl, accompanied by the secretary, entered the room.

"Miss Lauderdale," said the secretary, and departed, closing the doors silently behind her. As she did so it could be seen that a quietly dressed man sat on a heavy oak seat, once a month, beside the door, the girl, who entered into a strange, flushed face.

"Good afternoon, Dr. Charles," said the girl, seating herself.

The doctor studied the young girl framed in curling hair, noting the healthy color of the complexion, and the look of grave intelligence and sweetness.

"How are you feeling today?"

"A little better, I think."

"Only the medicine is agreeing with you?"

"Yes, and the other was not. I felt worse every time I took it."

"How are you sleeping?"

"Much better again, since we changed the medicine and since she has been so kind as to have anything more to do with Dr. Blackford and his treatment. He wasn't doing me any good, doctor."

"Well, you're in my hands now and we're going to do it right, aren't we?"

"Yes, doctor," replied the girl after an almost imperceptible pause. "I can't understand it. I was never ill in my life. Until I came here and live with my uncle and aunt. It began then suddenly."

Much Worse

"Do you suggest that your uncle's home is unhealthily situated? Anybody else over ill there?"

"No, doctor. Only I."

"Anybody else has been the house or the place, then. And, of course, you're no better here—right?"

"No. A great deal worse. If anything, I want either to go away, or to have Dr. Studley. I'm not getting better, and I hate that man at the door."

Dr. Charles inhaled a short, sharp breath, the sound of which was as that of a contemptuous snuff.

"Your going or remaining is for your uncle to decide. Your changing from Dr. McAdams to Dr. Studley is for me to decide. And you'll certainly not do it."

BLAST NUOES FOUR FIREMEN AT BLAZE

Police and state officials today are investigating a mysterious fire which swept through a building at Northampton and Washington sts. last night, at the same time a three-alarm fire caused damage estimated at $25,000 in a building in the heart of the leather district. In the Northampton st. fire, four firemen were hurt from the ceiling to the street as escaping gas exploded.

On man, James Powers, of Ladder 12, required hospital treatment after 12 required hospital treatment. Those whom the blast struck out of the cellar were Capt. John Leary, Ladder 12; Lieut. William Nolan, Hosemen Company; Lieut. John Kinnealy, and Hosemen Edward Buckley, of Engine 12.

Almost at the same time the first alarm sounded for this blaze, another alarm was turned in for a fire in a five-story brick building at South and East sts. in the leather district.

Two firemen were removed to the City Hospital suffering from lacerations.

They were Patrick Wall of Engine 12 and Carl Johnson of Ladder 12.

Fretful DAYS Restless NIGHTS ...give child Castoria

Fussy, fretful, can't sleep, won't eat. It isn't always day to find just where the trouble is with a young child. It may be a stomach upset; it may be sluggish bowels.

But when little tongues are coated and there is even a slight suspicion of bad breath—it's time for Castoria.

Castoria, you know, is a pure vegetable preparation especially made for babies and children. When baby cries with colic or is fretful because of constipation, Castoria brings quick comfort, and, with relief from pain, soothes him to restful sleep. For older children—up through all the school years—Castoria is equally effective in helping to keep irregularities, just give it in larger doses. When a mother Castoria is to mothers!

SUBMARINE HAS FINE CREW FOR POLAR VOYAGE

By CAPT. HUBERT WILKINS, Commander of the Williams-class submarine Nautilus, U. S. Navy.

Philadelphia, March 17—Under her own power, for the first time since she was turned over to the expedition.

A blanket of snow and thick weather made piloting difficult, and the submarine put into the Delaware river.

There was no clanking of bells, no rolling of drums as she backed from her berth in Camden. The steam whistles on tugboats screamed shrilly and the sirens of the steamers mounted a salute as the submarine swung into the stream.

There was strict silence on board, except for the sharp orders of the skipper. The skipper, Captain Hovey, was in the conning tower, looking down at the ship's log.

The few last articles required on board had been collected on the deck and were thrown on board in the drizzling rain. The vessel was moved at noon to a berth from which she could leave at any time and as soon as the equipment was stowed below, Dannenbower gave the orders to cast off the shore line, and we were on the way.

SKIPPER INSPIRES CREW

Dannenbower has inspired in his crew of experts a prompt action, immediate response to orders and loyalty that augurs well for the expedition.

It was more than pleased with the ability exhibited by the skipper and his crew on this first run.

The ship will proceed today to the oil docks at Marcus Hook, where the last fuel for the cruise to the Brooklyn navy yard will be taken on board. Some time this afternoon or tomorrow morning she will put out to sea.
